Rain Provides 'Breather' for New England

BOSTON (UP) — Widespread showers broke a month-long drought Friday night, but provided only "a breather" for fire-ravaged New England.

The first rain to fall on the region since early April temporarily ended the critical forest fire menace. The rain arrived two hours after flames were checked at historic Plymouth, Mass., in New England's worst forest fire in 10 years.

Estimates of loss in the billions were called "conservative" by forestry officials.

Massachusetts Gov. Foster Furcolo ordered an immediate program of cloud-seeding in hopes of manufacturing more rain.

Furcolo said, "We hold no hope for artificial rainmaking, but we are determined to leave no stone unturned." The plan, to be carried out in four areas of Massachusetts, was revealed a few hours after Furcolo asked the legislature for three million dollars to meet forest fire expenses.

More Rain Needed

Massachusetts Commissioner of Natural Resources Francis W. Sargent, said the showers provided "only a breathing spell." He repeated his earlier warning that "we need at least two inches of soaking rain" to end the forest fire danger. The Weather Bureau forecast called for less than one inch ending early today.

In Farmingdale, N.J., between 200 and 240 children had to be removed from a nearby tuberculosis sanitarium when a forest fire threatened the Howell Twp. Preventorium and other homes in the area.

The children were taken to nearby schools and sheltered for the night.

In Albany, N.Y., Gov. Averell Harriman banned all camping in wooded areas and canceled all state police days off in an effort to stem the 1,000-odd forest fires that have burned nearly 15,000 acres in the last five days.

Maine Also Hit

The Plymouth fire and another at West Kennebunk, Maine were the last to be brought under control. At Plymouth a force of 2,500 grimy fire-fighters wearily walked away from the last of the smouldering embers of 20,000 acres of forest.

Despite heavy losses, estimated at $1,500,000 in the Plymouth fire alone, no deaths have been reported in the five days of fires which blackened thousands of acres of forest and destroyed some 175 homes.

Soot-blackened firemen were preparing for a street-to-street fight in Plymouth when the flames were turned back. Though the fire was quickly under control, a force of 1,000 men continued to patrol the edges of the community to guard against "underground" fires rekindling near showplace homes preserved from the pilgrim era.

New Chancellor Is Inaugurated At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Dr. Edward H. Litchfield, new chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, proposed today lengthening the academic year to 45 weeks to sharply shorten students' stay at the institution.

In a speech at his formal inauguration as 12th chancellor of the 170-year-old institution, Dr. Litchfield declared serious thought must be given to a regular academic schedule of three 15-week units each year.

"Such a calendar would enable the student to complete the equivalent of a four-year undergraduate liberal arts program and a full course in law or medicine in five years," he said, "or complete a liberal education plus two years of graduate work in business administration in four years."

The 43-year-old educator said it "is ridiculous that a third-year student in a professional school, at age 24 or 25, should have 22 weeks a year relief from his professional studies, when the following year, at age 25 or 26, he will be given two, and at the most four, weeks' relief from his professional work in the same field."

The extended academic schedule, the new chancellor said, would make "the combination of a liberal and professional education manageable in terms of time invested."

He said the plan would enable substantial increases in faculty salaries without imparing research opportunities and also would mean more efficient use of expensive plants "at a time when the growth in student population will make plant needs critical."

Student at Holy Name School Is Contest Winner

An eighth grade student at Holy Name school placed second in an essay contest conducted recently throughout the Greensburg Catholic Diocese.

The essay of Raphael Fedorchak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fedorchak, of 1129 State Road, was judged second best from among 1100 entries.

The contest was sponsored by the Greensburg Serra Club. The essay topic was "Religious Vocations."

Two boys and two girls won prizes. Fedorchak's gift was a transistor radio.

The award was presented by Bishop Hugh L. Lamb on Thursday during a dinner at the Mountain View Hotel near Greensburg. The Fedorchak boy was accompanied to the event by his parents and his pastor, Rev. Joseph Gajdosik.

Holy Name school is operated by the Vincentian Sisters, who taught three of the four contest winners.

TELLS OF BECK JOB — Stewart Krieger, comptroller of the west coast Teamsters union welfare fund, tells the Senate investigations subcommittee in Washington that he drew $15,375 in salary and expenses from the union while working for the Dave Beck family beer distributing firm in 1949-1950.

Senate Probers To Ask Beck About His Loans

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Labor Rackets Committee next week will investigate what Dave Beck demanded of the Fruehauf Trailer Co. after lending it $1,500,000 of his Teamster Union's funds.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy told reporters today the inquiry will not be aimed at the loan itself, which was announced long ago, but "what occurred after that."

He said the investigation did not necessarily imply wrongdoing by Fruehauf. The loan was repaid with interest in 14 months.

Beck, head of the nation's biggest union, was pictured at Friday's hearing as a man who split a $11,585 profit from selling mortgages to a memorial fund for the widow of his best friend.

He was trustee of the memorial fund and as trustee of Teamster money, too, granted himself a loan to buy the mortgages which he sold to the memorial fund at a profit, Kennedy said.

The 31-year-old committee counsel said this was just one of four ways by which Beck and his family enriched themselves from the investment of more than nine million dollars of Teamster money in mortgages.

Lytle Verdict Due on May 20

The state yesterday asked for a first degree murder finding with a life sentence for James E. Lytle, of Finleyville.

Defense counsel countered with an argument to reduce the degree in the Dec. 6 paring knife slaying of Mrs. Lela Gelt to voluntary manslaughter.

Lytle, 36, entered a plea of murder, the plea constituting guilt to second degree murder.

Judge David H. Weiner, of Washington County announced he will hand down a decision on Monday, May 20.

Eagles to Give Statue Of Ten Commandments

A large granite monolith of the Ten Commandments will be presented to the City by Monessen Aerie 2399, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at ceremonies next Sunday at City Park.

It will be presented in behalf of the local Eagles Youth Guidance committee.

The monolith was installed in City Park yesterday and will be officially dedicated next Sunday beginning at 2:30 p.m.

The monolith measures 54 inches high, 32 inches wide and eight inches thick.

The granite in the monolith is similar in color and texture to that found in the heights of Mt. Sinai, where Moses received the Ten Commandments.

Joseph Martz, president, and John Evans, secretary, said representatives of all faiths will take part in the dedication. The Rev. Martin J. O'Toole, administrator of St. Leonard Church, will represent the Catholic faith; the Rev. Vernon Bowers, pastor of First Christian Church, the Protestant religion, and Rabbi Theodore Stampfer, of Kneseth Israel Synagogue, the Jewish faith.

Also present will be City officials and Eagle officers. The public is invited.

In a statement today, Martz said:

"We of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, in searching for a youth guidance program, recognized that there can be no better nor more defined program . . . than the laws handed down by God Himself to Moses more than 3,000 years ago . . . which laws have stood unchanged through the years. They are the fundamental part of our lives, the basis of all our laws for living, the foundation of our relationship with our Creator, with our families and with our fellow men."

Martz said the erection of the monolith is "to inspire all who pause to view them-with a renewed respect for the law of God, which is our greatest strength against the forces that threaten our way of life."

State's Congressional Members Split Over Allegheny River Dam

WASHINGTON (UP) — The controversy over the merits of the proposed Allegheny River dam and reservoir at Kinzua, Pa., was spotlighted Friday in testimony before the appropriations subcommittees of the House and Senate.

The state's congressional members have split over the project. Senators Edward Martin Republican and Joseph Clark, Democrat, voiced strong support, while Congressmen James Fulton and John Saylor, Republicans, opposed it.

In an appearance before the Senate group, Martin urged approval of a one million dollar budget request to start construction of the dam. He said the project was needed to prevent further loss of life and damage from floods.

Fulton gave several reasons for his opposition. He said Kinzua "is not a settled issue. It should not be forced through while there is disagreement."

He said there also is "quite" an engineering difference of opinion" on the merits of the project and "the Indian viewpoint should be considered thoroughly."

Indians Give Views

The Indian viewpoint was given in testimony before the House group by representatives of the Seneca and Cornplanter tribes.

Cornelius Seneca, president of the Seneca Nation, charged the United States government would be breaking the word George Washington gave the Senecas, if it builds the dam and reservoir. He said Washington's personal envoy said at the time of a 1794 treaty that the Seneca lands would remain undisturbed "as long as the moon rises, the river flows, the grass is green and the sun shines."

George D. Herron, treasurer of the Seneca nation, said the dam would deprive his tribe of more than two-thirds of their habitable land in New York. Some 1,100 Indians "will have no place to go," he said.

Charles S. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y., representing the Cornplanter tribe, said the dam would flood its entire reservation in Pennsylvania.

Seneca said his tribe "would not oppose the taking of our lands," if that were the only way to prevent floods downstream on the Allegheny River. He and two consulting engineers, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan and Barton M. Jones, contended construction of a canal to divert flood waters into Lake Erie would be more effective and require about two-thirds as much expenditure as the Kinzua project, cost of which has been estimated at 100 to 125 million dollars.

Opposed By Quaker Groups

Also opposing the dam were Robert Phair, Allendale, N.J., representing various Quaker groups; William Zimmerman, field director of the Association on American Indian Affairs, and Leo T. Connor, a director of the Indian Rights Association.

Martin told the Senate subcommittee the Kinzua project would be much more effective than a series of small dams, which some opponents of the project have proposed. He said smaller dams "by their very nature flood more land than large dams of the same aggregate capacity."

Former Local Man Unopposed For D. A. Post

A former Monessen attorney is expected to be the new district attorney of Potter County.

He is John A. Duvall, who moved to Coudersport, the seat of Potter County, about two years ago.

Duvall, 35, is unopposed for the Republican nomination for D. A. at the May 21 primary, and there are no candidates for the Democratic nomination. The county, one of the smallest in Pennsylvania, is predominantly Republican.

There is a slim possibility that a write-in candidate could be nominated on the Democratic ticket and then go on to to defeat Duvall in the general election. But the possibility is discounted by political circles in Coudersport.

Duvall would succeed William E. Young, who is completing his first term as district attorney and decided not to run for reelection.

Duvall is a native of Monessen, as is his wife, the former Ruth Gibb. They have two daughters.

He was active in Republican politics while practicing here and had served as chairman of the Young Republicans of Westmoreland County.

Duvall is a son of Mrs. Hugh McKinley, of Monongahela. He is a younger brother of Donald C. Duvall, of Monessen, vice president-industrial relations of the Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Low Bidders on Turnpike Spur Work Announced

Low bidders on two more sections of the turnpike spur from Washington, Pa. to New Stanton were announced by the State Highways Department yesterday.

The projects in Washington and Westmoreland counties, for the construction of about 4.7 miles of highway, will cost more than $4,500,000.

The Sector in Washington County runs from an intersection on Route 67075 (the Glyde-Eighty Four Rd.) west to a point near Vance Station and Zediker.

The project calls for the construction of one I-beam bridge and the bituminous surfacing and construction of 2.85 miles of highway. The Frank Mashuda Co., Inc., of Evans City, submitted the low bid of $1,913,125.

The Westmoreland County project will extend relocated Rt. 31 to the turnpike interchange at New Stanton.

Adam Eidemiller, Inc., Greensburg, submitted the low bid of $1,555,926 for the construction of one I-beam bridge, a steel girder pedestrian overpass span, and new roadway for 1.88 miles near the interchange.

Last week the Highways Department announced Eidemiller was low bidder for another section of the highway, 4.59 miles from the turnpike intersection near New Stanton to an intersection on Rt. 970, four miles east of West Newton.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)— President Eisenhower and his week end guest, British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery arrived here today by plane for two days of old soldier bull sessions and a lesson in applied history of the battle of Gettysburg.

Eisenhower and Montgomery flew from Washington in the President's twin-engined Aero Commander, landing at the grassy Gettysburg air field at 920 a.m. e.d.t.

Herbert A. Long Named to New Operations Post

Joseph R. Carter today announced that he has submitted his resignation as an executive of Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Carter's surprise announcement resulted in three personnel changes, including appointment of Herbert A. Long as general manager of operations.

Carter, who asked that his resignation be effective May 15, was to have become assistant to Carl A. Breuer, the vice president-operations, June 1.

At present, Carter is in charge of operations of Johnson Steel & Wire Co., a Pittsburgh Steel subsidiary in Worcester, Mass.

In a telephone conversation with The Daily Independent this morning, Carter said he was "not at liberty" to discuss his reasons for resigning from the company, of which his father, Joseph H. Carter, was a former president and chairman of the board of directors.

To Join Another Firm

Carter, 38, also said he was unable to discuss his plans "at this time." He did say, however, that he will join another steel firm.

Pittsburgh Steel made no mention of Carter in a press announcement today. The release merely announced the new appointments.

Long, chief engineer of the firm since 1954, moves into the position Breuer held until his election last April 10 as vice president-operations.

Succeeding Long as chief engineer will be John C. Peth, Sr., Pittsburgh Steel's chief electrical engineer for the past seven of his 34 years with the company.

Peth's successor is Elmer E. Barthel, who joined Pittsburgh Steel in September, 1956, as assistant chief electrical engineer.

Breuer said all three men will be headquartered in Monessen, but will have responsibilities for all production units of Pittsburgh Steel, as well as its Thomas Strip Division, Warren, O.

Long, of 205 Ridge ave., Orchard Plan, Belle Vernon, was born in Fayette City. He joined Pittsburgh Steel in August, 1926, as an inspector in the Allenport tube division. Later, he became a draftsman in the Monessen Engineering department. In 1935, Long became plant engineer at Allenport and chief engineer of that works in 1944. He left that post to become chief engineer.

Peth in Service

A registered engineer in Pennsylvania, Long is a member of the American Iron and Steel Institute, the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers, the American Petroleum Institute and the Monessen Chamber of Commerce.

Peth, of 104 Jean st., Belle Vernon, was born in Pittsburgh. He graduated from Crafton High School before completing an electrical engineering degree at University of Pittsburgh in 1917. Peth entered the Army during World War I as a private, served 18 months in France and was discharged as a second lieutenant.

He completed an advanced electrical engineering course and joined

School Principal Declares War On Tight Jeans

WASHINGTON (UP)—A suburban high school principal has declared war on tight blue jeans.

He doesn't go for tight white T-shirts either.

"They're indecent," he said. "And they don't look neat."

The principal — Samuel J. Coffey of nearby Fairfax, Va. — opened hostilities on tight blue jeans Friday by sending home from school about 40 tightly blue-jeaned boys.

"A few were wearing those silly things down on their hips," he said. "And those T-shirts are undershirts.

"They were a crummy-looking bunch."

Moreover, Coffey said, the whole business was a conspiracy — the boys decided in advance to wear the jeans and T-shirts to school on the same day.

"A hair-brained idea," the principal said. "They thought it was funny until I called them all out of class."

He said he told them "students should come to class neatly dressed to boost school morale."

"I told them they looked like scarecrows," he said.

Coffey said what he thinks about boys in tight jeans goes double for girls.

"Only I don't have any trouble with the girls," he said. "They even come and ask me if they can wear loose jeans on a picnic."

Pleads Guilty To Charge; Put On Probation

Robert Atkinson, 20, of near Elizabeth, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to ravish before Washington County Judge David H. Weiner.

He was placed on probation for 24 months and ordered to pay the county $10 monthly for that period.

This was the case in which a rape indictment was returned and which prompted the District Attorney's office to prosecute the owner of a East Monongahela tavern for sales to minors.

Atkinson and the 17-year-old girl involved were allegedly served drinks at Jack's Tavern last September, when the offense took place.

City Backtracks on Rental Tax Position

The City of Monessen has quietly backtracked on its position that income from rents, dividends and interest is subject to the City's wage-income tax.

The Daily Independent learned today that the tax ordinance was changed by City Council last Dec. 26 without any discussion in open meeting.

Now the wage-income tax is levied against so-called "unearned income only if such income is received from rents which are the taxpayer's "principal source of income."

Income from rents which is not a "principal source of income" and from dividends and interest are no longer subject to the tax.

The change brings the local ordinance into line with state Supreme Court decisions which have held that municipalities could not tax these forms of income because they are already taxed by the state government.

Joseph Battle, deputy director of accounts and finance and collector of the wage tax, said today that the change in the ordinance will not materially affect the policy under which he has been operating.

Although the old law required taxpayers to report unearned income and pay the tax on it, because of the legal doubt, Battle has never enforced collection on this kind of income.

This means, in effect, that some citizens were paying taxes on income from rents, dividends and interest and some were not.

Although Battle admitted that this was unfair, the City has no plans to make refunds to taxpayers who have paid on their full income.

City Solicitor David H. Weiss also admitted that the City was on "shaky" legal ground in collecting taxes on unearned income.

Under the former ordinance, he set up a "rule of thumb" which Battle used in determining what portions of a citizen's income was subject to the tax. The rule held that if portion of income was "income" to the taxpayer's total income, the "amount" portion was not taxable.

Using himself as an example, Weigle told The Independent that his principal source of income is his legal practice but that he also had income from rents. But because the rental income was "incidental", he did not pay tax on it even though both the ordinance and the instruction on the tax form clearly specified that all income "from whatever source" was taxable.

The change has been in effect since the new ordinance was adopted last December and was incorporated in the revised instructions on new forms mailed to taxpayers for the first time last month.

It doesn't seem so long since she was a little girl herself, picking out a card for her mother on Mother's Day. Yet this morning there was a card at the breakfast table, reading, "To Mommy, with love ..."

On this day, she feels a special meaning as she goes to church with her little girl's white-gloved hand clasped tightly in hers. As they kneel in prayer together a wave of tenderness comes over her, and as she looks at the small figure by her side she at once feels grateful to God for making her a mother, and awed by the responsibility which is hers.

She prays God to endow her with the qualities all mothers need: common sense, a touch of humor, tenderness, wisdom, the capacity for comfort, a large measure of courage, quick laughter, and just a dash of sternness. And she is deeply thankful that in this, the most important task of her life, she has her Faith and her Church to guide her.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

School Board Meets; Reelects Treasurer, and Secretary

Vice President Joseph Hoffman conducted the May meeting of the Belle Vernon School Board in the Vernon Junior High School library on Wednesday evening in the absence of the president, George Trozzo, who recently underwent surgery in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital. Other board members present were Lewis Gilliland, Gerald Stanley and J. E. Kuhn.

Joseph Hoffman, Sr., treasurer, Principal Laura Free, Supervising Principal Robert VanBremen and Elementary Supervisor Joseph Brisbane also attended.

Hoffman was reelected treasurer for one year and Kuhn was reelected recording secretary for four years by the board members.

The regular order of business was suspended while the board heard the request of the Lions Club Baseball Chairman Harold Ringstad and Lions Kenneth Clark and Jack Flora to increase the time for the Little League which is now at 180 hours, because of increased registration of boys wishing to participate. This was tabled in order that it might be discussed with the North Belle Vernon Board, which also cooperates in the program. VanBremen was asked to check on the allocation for this project.

A request for a referendum among employes of the District concerning the integration of the Public Schools Retirement System was approved.

Playground Talk

It was also reported that as yet there was no meeting with the Community Foundation and the representative of the North Belle Vernon Board to discuss the possibility of securing the deed for 15 lots owned by the Foundation on Graham St. to provide a playground in North Belle Vernon. This will be taken care of in the early future.

It was voted to put up signs in the Market St. Playground notifying all parents that the board will assume no responsibility for children using the playground until it is officially opened under supervision in the summer. Meanwhile at 9 p. m. curfew will be enforced on those using the playground in the evenings and Chief of Police Vincent Isenberg was requested to cooperate in this action.

Secretary Kuhn reported there were additions made to the 1957 tax duplicate by the County office and the assessed property valuation in the borough is now $632,520. There are also 1527 persons, who will pay per capita tax.

Tax Collector Stephen Smith submitted his annual report and certification and was instructed to return the list of delinquents to the County. A report on per capita collections was submitted. Property taxes that are delinquent will be returned to Fayette County for liening purposes and the per capita list will be submitted to a justice of peace for collection. Smith was exonerated from the uncollected taxes.

Miss Free in submitting her report announced that a new ironer, washer and dryer have been installed in the home economics room in the replacement program. She presented an affadavit signed by Esther Bitonti assuming full responsibility for Patsy McBurney, who can not attend school without action. Miss Free announced that 29 students would make the tour to Niagara Falls along with other students in the Joint Schools.

The use of a public address system as outlined by VanBremen was approved. He also announced that Fayette County officers have approved an additional half day Kindergarten program at Marion.

The proposed budget for the 1957-58 school term was adopted in the amount of $103,960.18 with no major changes from last year and the tax millage of 35 mills. Luncheon was served and Mrs. Fiora Gillen was named next hostess also approved. This rate has been in effect for the past 12 years without change.

A request by North Belle Vernon Councilman William Rowley for the use of the stadium for Sunday baseball was approved.

The Thompson-Githens and Glenn Anderson agencies were designated as the board's insurance brokers.

The board passed six resolutions concerning the Joint Schools building program and a complete report was given on the project by Kuhn.

Trees Will Be Removed to Pave Streets

A discussion concerning the removal of two trees to widen Spalter St. in Fayette City occupied Borough Council's time at a special meeting Thursday evening.

Jack Driscoll has objected to the cutting of the trees. As a result the work on the repaving of hill streets was delayed until Council made a decision.

Council decided to proceed with original plans, following advice from the Borough Solicitor John Rygiel, who said Council has the right to remove all obstacles to improvements without the consent of the property owner at the borough's expense.

He said the borough could assess the property owner one-third the cost of street improvement if necessary. However, Council is not planning on assessing property owners in the hill street repaving program.

Shafer St. and Short St. will be widened to 24 feet while Prospect and Center streets will be 26 feet, Council said.

Present were John Canigiani, president; LeRoy Gardner, Harold Keenan, Norman Humphries, Lewis Alberta and Jake Zubovic, all councilmen, and Edward Shook secretary. James Hamer, Driscoll and Edwin Hindmarsh were also present.

Gardner was the only councilman not voting. The others favored the original plan.

Parente's "BROKEN" Promises

Parente's been in office TWELVE (12) years and has DONE "NOTHING" about the filthy housing conditions on Morgan, Highland, Schoonmaker avenue, Third street, and other sections.

FOUR years ago the Mayor "PROMISED" to do something for the people who live in these SECTIONS. What did he do? "NOTHING"! WHY? Because he is interested in the EAST END section for HE has a "SPECIAL" interest in that direction. IF the Mayor had "YOU" PEOPLE at heart, he would have started "TO WORK" long ago "TO DO" Morgan, Highland and West Schoonmaker avenue sections "FIRST," because they are the "OLDEST" houses in Monessen.

These homes are "INJURING" your "HEALTH AND SAFETY" — EVERDAY — they continue to EXIST. DO you people have to WAIT sixteen (16) years or twenty (20) years to get a decent place to live in? ARE you going to be the LAST to be taken care of? Mayor Parente is "LAX" in condemning these filthy, dilapidated, rat-infested, fire trap, disease breeding houses because they are "OWNED" by the "FRIENDS" of the Mayor. Such OLD houses lack many facilities: therefore, should have been condemned long ago, BUT the Mayor wants his "FRIENDS" to continue to collect rent profits from these dilapidated houses, that were bought at "GIVE AWAY" prices.

THESE houses should be torn down as SOON AS POSSIBLE to "preserve" the "health and safety" of ALL these people.

The Mayor is sure "LOOKING" in the WRONG DIRECTION if he is interested in health and safety of the people of Monessen.

ASK Parente WHY he has instructed storekeepers to take out my PLACARDS from their windows?

An Almost Impossible Public Office

THE JOB of superintendent of schools is, in most communities, one of the most difficult and responsible of all public positions. The school system usually consumes more tax money than any other public function and, of course, the training of children is a responsibility whose seriousness is self-evident.

The superintendent's job in Monessen has come to be particularly difficult in recent years as a result of a local political condition which has produced a depreciation of the importance of the office of school director. Whereas this office, although it carries no salary, is worthy of the talents of men or women of broad experience, it has come to be regarded in Monessen as merely a minor political honor requiring no particular qualifications.

This arrangement throws unusual burdens on the superintendent. Instead of being guided by his board of directors, he must guide the board. In addition to executing policy, he must also formulate policy. Besides being an educator, he must be a financier.

Many of the difficulties, particularly the financial ones, which the Monessen school district is experiencing are traceable to our lack of a strong board of school directors.

Dr. Michael Duda, the former superintendent, was in our opinion an earnest and competent man. But he came to Monessen without previous experience as a superintendent. And instead of having the guidance of a mature body of substantial citizens, he found himself trying to sell to the directors on what he regarded as proper policies.

To complicate the matter further, the board gives the superintendent as a legal adviser a petty politician who, when a problem arises, either has to turn to outside lawyers or straddles both sides of the issue.

We think Dr. Duda did as well as could have been done under these difficult circumstances.

* * *

NOW HE has been succeeded by Dr. Joseph Pallone, who also comes to Monessen, like Dr. Duda, from the principalship of a high school. And before he can get used to sitting in the chair of a superintendent, he finds himself dealing with the financial problems which are the primary responsibility of the directors but with which most of the directors are incompetent to deal.

Our impression to this point is that Dr. Pallone has the ability to be a good superintendent. But we continue to doubt that either he or the school system as a whole can be any better than the body which is supposed to direct them both.

Until we upgrade the office of school director by giving it only to our most outstanding citizens, the superintendent is going to have a well-nigh impossible job and will be entitled to our sympathy.

Prize Winners

THE MONONGAHELA Valley can take considerable pride in the fact that three of its communities took honors in the annual civic development contest sponsored by the State Chamber of Commerce.

Monessen won third prize among cities of the 10,000 to 25,000 class, and Donora received honorable mention in this same category.

Now it is announced that Charleroi has won fourth place among the communities under 10,000 population.

We who make our homes in the Valley are inclined sometimes to dwell more upon its needs and its faults than upon its assets. And to be sure, a community which has great needs, as we all recognize that we have, also has great incentive for civic development.

But communities do not make progress just because progress is desirable. They move forward because they have the will to move forward and have developed the cooperation and the leadership that are necessary to produce accomplishment.

The recognition that has come to Monessen, Donora and Charleroi should inspire them individually to continue their efforts towards self-improvement. We think it might also encourage them to seek ways in which they can cooperate for mutual benefit.

One obvious avenue for further joint activity is in the area of industrial development. A Valley-wide organization has been at work for sometime seeking further diversification of employment opportunities. The individual communities should support this effort as substantially as they can. For here certainly is one field where the good of one is the good of all.

Benson Killed Nurseries, Now Wants Trees

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Ezra Taft Benson has run into trouble on his somersault on tree-growing. First he killed all government nurseries; now he is urging more money for nurseries. The trouble comes primarily from his fellow Republicans.

Mr. Pearson

Shortly after he became Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra junked all Department of Agriculture nurseries. He claimed it was not the job of the government to grow trees, and he turned the nurseries over to the states — even if the states don't want them.

At Winona, Minn., Benson gave a thriving U. S. nursery to the state of Minnesota. The state proceeded to remove all trucks, tools, tractors, the overhead irrigation system and some of the choice nursery stock. Then Minnesota abandoned the site.

The site is now owned by the Winona Sand and Gravel Co., which purchased the once-thriving U. S. Government nursery for the bargain price of $3,000. The price included a Butler building valued at $12,000, plus all irrigation equipment that could not be moved, including a pump, motor, etc., plus other minor buildings.

In brief, the nursery which once grew thousands of trees is now a gravel pit.

But three years later, when Secretary Benson started his soil bank plan, he suddenly discovered he would need trees.

Republicans Object

So, because it's too late to start U. S. nurseries and because he doesn't want to reverse himself that much, Benson is now pumping $6,000,000 of federal funds into state nurseries whether the states want the money or not.

Benson is giving the $6,000,000 in direct grants to the states, without any matching funds, a policy directly contrary to the Eisenhower policy of making the states put up matching money for federal aid.

The House Appropriations subcommittee, discovering what Benson was doing, objected. They found that the grants were made by the Secretary of Agriculture himself.

"Why did you oppose such subsidies in 1955," asked Congressman Budge of Idaho, "yet now you have them in the budget?"

Congressman Jenson of Iowa also objected. He doubted whether the Agriculture Department had legal authority to subsidize state nurseries to sell trees at below cost to farmers.

The plan for U. S. funds for state nurseries is going ahead anyway, with the expectation that farmers will plant 5,000,000 acres in trees under the soil bank plan. Actually farmers have signed contracts to plant only seven per cent of that number in 1956-57. Since 1940 farmers have planted only 10,000,000 acres of trees, and their rate of planting prior to the soil bank had reached about 1,000,000 acres per year.

So they will have to do a lot of planting to get 5,000,000 acres per year any time in the near future.

Mayors Get The Run-around

Eleven U.S. mayors who oppose a new natural gas bill have been getting the silent run-around from Rep. Oren Harris, D., Ark., chairman of the House Commerce Committee which is now hearing testimony on the 1957 natural gas bill.

The new version of the bill, endorsed by President Eisenhower at a recent press conference, is basically the same as the Harris bill the President vetoed a year ago.

Southwestern natural gas producers, who seek greater freedom in raising prices, had their day in court this week before the Harris Committee. Next week opponents of the bill are slated to appear.

However, Harris has been reluctant to schedule the "U. S. Mayors Committee on Natural Gas Legislation," which wields the weightiest influence against the Harris bill. Headed by New York City's Mayor Robert Wagner, it speaks for 12,000,000 gas customers, most of whom don't want their monthly gas payments raised.

Chairman Harris has delayed granting the mayors a specific time to testify next week, simply saying he's too busy to consider the matter.

On May 2 Mayor Raymond Dilworth of Philadelphia wrote to Harris to request a chance for the mayors to testify. He was told to submit a list of their names and replied on May 3.

"When all requests have been received," wrote Dilworth, "we believe the total will be some 15 to 20, and their statements will not exceed 15 minutes each.

"I am sure you realize, however, that no one can be given top priority with his family, as it is not possible for us to arrange the trips of these gentlemen from all over the country, burdened as they are with heavy municipal duties, unless the day on which they [illegible] in advance."

Today and Tomorrow—

Popularity Isn't Power

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The President has been the loss to understand why, after his enormous victory in November, he has run into such heavy opposition in Congress. His majority, he seems to think, was a national mandate from the people which ought to be obeyed not only by the Republicans in Congress but by the responsible Democrats as well. Yet, in fact, there is virtually no connection between the popular vote for Eisenhower in November and what the Congress is willing to do for him.

Mr. Lippmann

The Republicans in Congress are led by men like Mr. Knowland and Mr. Bridges who are opposed to the President on many of the critical issues of the cold war of foreign policy. The Eisenhower Republicans — Sen. Francis Case put it the other day — who greatly admire President Eisenhower and resolve most of their doubts in his favor. They are a small minority. The Democrats, who back the President with effective support after they won control of Congress in 1954, are now a partisan opposition preparing for the congressional election of 1958. In Congress today the majority party leaders who manage the legislative machine are acting on the assumption that the voters will not punish them if they oppose the President and will not reward them if they support him.

Thus, despite his great personal majority, the President has no party behind him, and he finds himself unable to translate his popularity into the hard coin of practical political power.

Broadcast Recalled

In the famous broadcast of Feb. 29, 1956 when, after his emergency ileitis heart attack, he explained his decision to run for a second term, the President was already concerned with this problem. He knew he had not a mandate, as he hoped he had, in electing the Republicans behind him.

"The worst," he said, "that I set out four years ago to do has not yet reached the state of development and position that I then hoped could be accomplished within the period of a single term in this office." What was this unaccomplished work? It was the conversion of the Republican Party to what it has since become the fashion to call "modern Republicanism" — to a "program," as he put it in his broadcast, that "adapts governmental methods to changing industrial, economic, and social conditions."

He thought that he had not brought about this adaptation because four years were not a long enough time, and that he could bring it about in his second term. But as a matter of fact, his personal power is declining, not increasing, and he faces more trouble, not less, in getting support now than he did in his first term.

The decline of his power is no doubt connected with the fact that he can never run again. But why is it that he has not been able to translate his great personal popularity into effective political power? Franklin Roosevelt became the undisputed leader of the Democratic Party as his first term. Why did not President Eisenhower?

There are, so it seems to me, two main reasons.

Not Practical Politician

The first is that he has never understood, or at least has never been willing to believe in, the operations by which practical politicians translate popularity into power. He has wanted to remake the Republican Party in the fifties as Roosevelt remade the Democratic Party in the middle thirties. But he has never been willing to break the eggs that are needed for that omelet. He has hoped that the Republicans who did not share his views would have a change of heart, that his own sincerity and geniality would win them over. He has never been willing to do what practical political leaders have to do, which is to fill the posts of command with men who share their views, to defend and to reward their supporters, and to put out or put down their opponents.

He has thought of himself as accomplishing his hopes for the Republican Party by standing above that party. From that eminence he would by the radiation of his popularity change the course of American political history. This image of the presidency has in fact done much to increase his personal popularity. He has kept aloof from the controversies which arouse opposition and cause unpopularity.

But, though it has increased his popularity, it has diminished his influence. For men do not follow leaders who do not lead, and they do not care to be shot at while their commanders are surveying their foes.

Conflicting Objectives

The second big reason why he has not succeeded in becoming the leader of a reconstituted party is that, quite sincerely and genuinely, he has incompatible objectives. He would like "to be a modern Republican" in promoting welfare measures and an internationalist policy in foreign policy. But he would also like to be somewhere between Secretary Humphrey and Senator Byrd when it comes to paying for modern Republicanism. On the one hand he would like, as he said in his acceptance speech to the San Francisco convention, to make the Republicans "the party of the future" and to meet the "new kinds of challenge to federal and rural and productive water supply, housing, health, [illegible] peaceful uses of atomic energy. With two-thirds of us living in big cities, questions of [illegible] transportation and redevelopment must be given high priority. Highest of all, perhaps, will be the problem of first class education to meet the demands of our swiftly growing school age population."

But while meeting these big challenges, he would like at the same time to restore private initiative to expand the functions of the federal government and to avoid somehow the rise in federal expenditures which is unavoidable if the challenges are to be met.

This incomparability within his own philosophy has come to a head in the present budget. As presented, the budget reflects a cautious and moderate attempt to meet the challenges and to act like the modern Republican Party which he desires. But as this means money, and therefore a big budget, it runs counter to the other side of his philosophy. As a result, he presented a modern Republican budget and then did not defend it against its enemies in Republican critics.

It is not easy for him to have his cake with George Humphrey and also to eat it with Arthur Larson.

Notes and Comment—

Critics of Ike's Golf Ignorant About Game

By HARRY R. PORE, Jr.

The mode and the frequency of President Eisenhower's periods of relaxation and rest have become a topic of national discussion again. And no less an authority on this interesting subject of presidential repose than ex-President Truman has recently joined the roundtable, his comment being adverse, of course.

But I notice that most all of the objections to Mr. Eisenhower's golf come from non-golfers. And I just wonder if a non-golfer is really qualified to pass judgment on the spiritual requirements of a golfer.

When Mr. Truman was President, he found surcease most often at a poker table surrounded by old buddies, with a glass of bourbon handy. Usually this exercise was taken aboard the presidential yacht anchored down the Potomac.

And I saw nothing wrong with this as it gave Mr. Truman refreshment. The Secret Service forbade him to take his beloved morning walks.

But when Mr. Truman implies that a man can't as well rehabilitate his mind and spirit on a golf course as at a poker table, I think he is out of order. No non-golfer is competent to have such an opinion.

Not Neglecting Job

Before this essay proceeds further, I had best depose and say that I am a golfer and a non-poker player. There may be some confusion among our readers who would claim to have evidence to the effect that I am not a golfer. But before they open their big mouths, let them be on notice that any such testimony will be made null are of by me at the very next negotiation on the first tee. Anybody who says I am not a golfer scores me a stroke a hole, and there will be no more nonsense about that.

But I stand on the assertion that a non-golfing poker player has no more business criticizing a golfer than a canasta addict has criticizing a bird-watcher. These are all honorable pursuits and more or less successful so far as their devotees are concerned.

If it is charged — and it frequently is — that President Eisenhower is shirking his job when he is playing golf, again I demur. And I would do so on behalf of any golfer who shoots in the 80s or higher.

When a man plays golf in the 70s — that's altogether different. His mind is likely to be blank to everything but golf, and he's probably neglecting his work as well as his family. Unless he's a pro, he'll come to a bad end.

But the fellow who, like Mr. Eisenhower, plays 80 and 90 golf — he is undoubtedly thinking about many things besides golf. In fact, as any duffer knows, thinking about other things is one of the principal causes of a slice or a hook.

Time for Thinking

And as this kind of golfer criss-crosses the fairways in lonely pursuit of his misdirected shots, he has ample time and precisely the solitude required for serious thoughts on matters not even remotely connected with golf. And I know of no better proof than a three-putt green that a man's mind is on his business or his work.

So those who infer that when the President is on the golf course he is neglecting his job just do not know golf. And with all respect to Mr. Truman, I would go so far as to say that they do not know the presidency either.

The presidency is not a clock-punching job. Nor is it a desk job. When the President is in his office signing his name to papers and greeting delegations of visitors, he is not performing the main function of the presidency.

The main task of the President, as Mr. Truman himself has often said, is to make decisions based on his experience and judgment and the advice of associates in whom he has confidence. And wholly aside from the well known fact that Mr. Eisenhower, who is an athletic man, requires regular and frequent exercise, it is a gross misconception to say that when he leaves his office for the golf course, he is neglecting his work. The exact opposite is quite likely to be the case.

'Flower Show' Comes Earlier This Spring

By JOHN H. DAY

I almost missed the spring flower show. The hasty season has rushed things so far ahead of schedule that this year a country-man just can't keep up with the parades. Especially if his rural ramblings is limited to weekends. With the calendar hardly denting May the bloodroot and hepatica have already called it a day. The trout lilies are withered wisps of earlier glory. Coltsfoot is but a golden memory. Even the gorgeous trillium show has already passed its peak.

By parking one car near the lower end and driving another to a road at the head of a remote run county valley, we were able to explore the three-mile glen without the necessity of the long return hike. Coal stripping operations have laid waste much of this countryside, but the valley itself is as yet unspoiled and we walked through a brilliant flower show that only the Master Hand of the Creator could devise.

Trilliums were everywhere, starting the loamy banks with great drifts of magnificent bloom. Many of these blossoms were turning the pinkish color of the aging flower. Here and there were clumps of the dark-red, ill-scented trillium, a beautiful bloom. An occasional dogwood had hung out a dazzling white display, luring the wild crabapple thickets to set a matching glory of pink and white, and to flood the glen with heady perfume which makes each encounter with this thorny tree a pure delight.

Blossoms Profuse

We logged a surprising total of blossoms in the trek through that valley. Both the rue and the wood anemone were in full flower. At one point we came on a patch of trailing arbutus. Virginia bluebells stood around in lonesome groups of pastel wonder.

The Jacob's ladder had also discovered the rich bottomlands edging this creek. Ground ivy, which goes where the white man goes, advertised the fact that once there had been a busy mill and a country hotel where now not even a post remains as sure evidence.

Golden ragwort lighted the undergrowth with its radiance. The fragile little golden corydalis was everywhere. An occasional black mustard added to the golden section of the colorful tapestry. In the lower reaches of the valley we came across the taller, weedy-looking plant known simply as zizia, whose flowers are also golden - yellow. Purple larkspur showed its spikes of spurred blossoms as a darker accent in the floral picture.

Both the crinkle roots were in evidence, but their blooming days are almost over. The little penny cress stood about in damper areas, keeping company with the marsh buttercup, and that other buttercup with the tiny, insignificant flowers. Wild ginger hugged its unusual bloom close against the ground. The little sedum which is known as stone crop or stitchwort has filled its arms with the tiny white "stitches" of its days of glory.

Phlox in Flower

We came across patches of teaberry and checkerberry. The phlox which youngsters call "Sweet William" was in flower. Early saxifrage, always common, was much in evidence, as was the little mitrewort called Bishop's Cap. Goose grass sprinkled its tiny tiny white flowers over everything. Chickweed also showed up here and there along the way.

Later in the afternoon we stood by a farm pond in a sharp ravine back in those hills and watched with wonder the amazing, effortless flight of a group of rough-winged swallows who had discovered this hidden "lake". They dipped and floated and careened and zoomed in a poetry of flight which was wonderful indeed. Plain brown birds they are, lighter underneath with a sort of brown flush about the throat, but in flight they are anything but plain.

Still later, while exploring some rough land, where the strip miners' dragline had chewed out great gulfs in the terrain, we came across a colony of paw paw bushes in full flower. These blooms, set in odd ranks along the twigs, resemble somewhat the flower of the wild ginger. Later the lush green leaves will appear, blanketing the shrub in an exotic cloak of rich foliage which reveals its close relationship to a tribe of plants indigenous to the tropics.

It's a Fact—

During their existence as such, the Confederate states had three capitals. First one was Montgomery, Ala., then Richmond, Va., and finally Danville, Va.

To Boost MHS Season Ticket Sale

Monessen High officials are determined to keep Memorial Stadium fairly well populated next football season. Reveals faculty-manager Armand Mori: "We plan to really emphasize our advance season ticket sale this year. Several downtown agencies will be set up and the band will parade through town to kickoff the sale. We are working on a couple of other wrinkles, too. But the main point is that we are going out after customers." . . . All of which recalls the novel device employed by Latrobe High last season to curb a sagging football attendance. The Latrobe biggies sent 50 seniors through town to take orders for season tickets.

* * *

Gene Danser, the former Monessen High and Penn State tackle, proved himself a polished speaker at the annual MHS all-sports banquet the other night. The current Mars High coach talks softly but with feeling. His remarks made real sense . . . Reportedly Glassport High authorities are a little peeved over the fact that they'll have to play in basketball Section 6 again next season. There is even a suggestion that the Glassers quit the WPIAL program altogether and play an independent schedule. Elizabeth High is also somewhat unhappy over its spot with the tough Section 6 crowd.

Dick Hoak Headed for Penn State

Dick Hoak, Jeannette High's splendid footballer, is supposedly headed for Penn State. After considering all sorts of offers, he was impressed most by the representatives of Mt. Nittany . . . They're busy laying concrete blocks for the Midget Football League concession stand at Memorial Stadium. The 90-foot building is being constructed by volunteer labor. Anyone interested in helping is invited to do so. There's activity on the project almost every evening . . . Ben Haldy, the former Monongahela High football coach, resigned his coaching position at Vandergrift High some weeks back because of ill health. He plans to stay on as a teacher, though.

* * *

Ron Minnie, the former Monessen High basketball star, won his first race with the Westminster College track team the other day during a meet with Grove City. He was first in the 220 low hurdlers. Another Titan basketballer, ex-South Union standout Charley Brown, won the 880 yard run while Monessen's fleet Felton Brown walked away with 220 yard dash honors as usual . . . Incidentally Felton is gunning for two all-time track marks at Westminster. Brown ran the 100 yard dash in 9.8 the other day, but the all-time Titan mark is 9.6. He covered the 220 in 21.9 recently, while the Westminster record is 21.7. With his best years ahead, Brown just might rewrite those records.

Fayette City Ticket Promotion

Up Fayette City way, the baseball team is peddling season tickets to finance the current campaign. The ducats will entitle the holder to watch all home games without digging down when the hat is passed . . . West Virginia University's baseball team boasts no less than five hitters with averages of .340 or better. The Mounties have a 10-5 record at the moment . . . Mr. and Mrs. Wade Roe of Belle Vernon placed third in the spring rally of the Blue Ridge Mountain Sports Car Club recently. The group's next event will be held on Sunday, May 26 starting at 2 p. m., near Connellsville . . . We still think the Pirates will finish sixth or better. And we still like manager Bobby Bragan. Go ahead and boo!

More Spitball Pitching Than Ever in Majors

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Spitball pitching has become much more widespread in the National League since Warren Giles cleared Lew Burdette, players insist privately, and the only reason there are no swuawks is because every club has at least one pitcher throwing the "dew-drop."

There's a new gimmick, too. with some of the spitball tossers going to their hair for a "vaseline" pitch which works the same way. When Giles cleared Burdette, that was all the challenging Birdie Tebbetts wanted. He now has two spitball pitchers on his staff —and is said to be instructing others.

A Strange Possibility

Horsemen are considering the strange possibility that Calumet Farm possibly could manage the never-accomplished feat of winning the Triple Crown with three different horses. They theorize that on the heels of Iron Liege's Kentucky Derby win, the barn could take the Preakness with Gen. Duke and the Belmont Stakes with Barbizon. However, the word is that Barbizon will not be ready for the Belmont.

Howard Capps recalls with a grin when he was teaching Ray Haywood, sports columnist of the Oakland, Calif., Tribune, how to play golf. Ben Hogan came to town in a tournament and Capps told Haywood to follow him and watch Ben's style.

"But don't bother him," Capps said. "He won't talk anyhow."

"You were wrong about Hogan not talking," Haywood said the next day. "Why, he spoke to me the first time I walked over to where he was playing."

"Yeah?" Capps inquired incredulously.

"Yep," Haywood replied. "He said 'Watch out for your shadow there, bud.'"

Looks Into Future

Ellie Noyes, Dartmouth track coach, looks well into the future. Recently a couple of kids asked him to judge their race around the block.

"Go twice around, kids," Ellie said. "I'm going to be needing distance runners in a few years." Then there was Clayton Heafner's reaction when a galleryite crowded in on him as he started to play a shot and demanded, "What club you playing?"

"A two iron," Heafner replied. "Think it's enough club?" the guy puzzled.

"Fellah," said the glaring Heafner, "If you'll just stand back about 10 feet, we'll both find out."

Heart Ailment Slows Reiser

ST. LOUIS (UP) — A heart ailment kept one - time National League batting champion Harold "Pete" Reiser in the hospital today.

The former Brooklyn Dodger who in 1941 led the league with a .343 batting average was forced to quit temporarily his post managing the Dodger's farm club at Kokomo, Ind. for hospital treatment.

Winning Run Tallied In Eighth

Those rascal Monessen High baseballers almost staged the upset of the Section 17 baseball season yesterday.

As it turned out, they lost to arch Charleroi, 3-2, in eight innings. But no one was ashamed of the performance.

The setback was the eighth straight for the Greyhounds who haven't won since they startled second place Monongahela in the season opener.

For a while yesterday it looked as though Coach John Hayduk's boys might ambush undefeated Charleroi, too. Earlier in the season the Cougars had overwhelmed the Hounds at Ninth Street Park.

But it was a different story this time as Monessen's Myron Sepitko, who has missed most of the season because of a sore arm, fashioned a pretty neat seven hitter.

Passed Ball

Sepitko had a 1-0 lead until the fifth. He was still hanging on grimly in extra innings when a passed ball proved his undoing.

Ron Cosner launched the Charleroi payoff inning in the eighth with a single. Carl Witmyer also singled. Both runners held on an infield out, but Cosner roared across when veteran catcher Carl Crawley was unable to hold a high-outside pitch.

Monessen opened the game with a 1-0 lead when Dick DiBiaso reached first on an error and moved around on singles by Crawley and John Kaminsky.

The Cougars, held to one hit over the first four innings, forged ahead with a pair in the fifth.

Score Two Runs

Joe Arrigo started the inning by drawing a walk. John Thomas doubled him across and a single by Cosner scored the second run of the inning.

At that point, the Cougar ace Carl Witmyer came on to replace starter Ron Zelenski to insure the victory.

However Carwley greeted Witmyer with a triple and later scored on an error.

Monessen Fifth Wins Valley Crown Again

Monessen Fifth Avenue won the Mon Valley Ladies Bowling League title last night by defeating Uniontown in a special rolloff at the Connellsville lanes.

The Monessen girls had no real trouble winning their third straight title even though they had a letdown in their final game.

Monessen posted scores of 728, 714 and 668 for a total pinfall of 2110. Uniontown had scores of 619, 595 and 732 to a total of 2018.

Mary Palm led Monessen with a 179-454 score. For the losers Ruth Boal had 202-497.

By winning the valley title, Monessen qualified for the annual tournament of league champions in Pittsburgh. They are also seeking their third straight crown in that event.

Perry Defeats Charleroi, 6-4

Perryopolis exploded for five runs in the fifth inning to whip Charleroi, 6-4, in Mon Valley League baseball play last night.

Tommy Havadich, one of the few Perry veterans, provided the key blow in the big inning, a screaming single with the bases loaded. Two errors also helped in the run production.

Odlham Bonnuci had a triple and single for the winners, while Charleroi's Ray Barli collected a triple and single.

Four Sweeps in Ladies League

There were four sweeps in the Friday Night Ladies Bowling League.

Alpha blanked Theta, Delta took Chi, Phi bested Eta and Sigma won over Gamma.

In another match, Theta took two of three from Kappa.

Scoring leaders were Goldie Matko, 142-372; Helen Bender, 142-312; Pauline Cenkner, 110-306; Mary Gustin, 140-354; Frances Gagatko, 111-290; Marie Komatz, 114-296; Pauline Mihalich, 115-293; Norma Tatkoski, 109-315; Mary Teska, 146-358; Anne Lombardo, 129-349.

Nip Late Rally to Beat Surprisingly Tough Home Team

Manager Pappy Johnson's Monessen Ozarks ran into unexpected trouble at West Newton last night but still managed to eke out an 8-6 verdict.

The Ozarks thus won their third straight Mon Valley League game. And for the third time, durable Bill Mitnick was on the mound at the end.

Fuzzy Anderson started for the Ozarks and had an 8-0 lead in the sixth inning. However things started to happen at that point and Mitnick was eventually summoned to put out the fire.

The near-loss impressed manager Johnson. He had pulled most of his regulars with an 8-0 lead.

"I'll never do that again," vowed Pappy.

Neil Hill slammed a homer and single to pace Monessen's eleven hit attack. Bob Mastracci checked in with a double and triple.

Open Scoring

The Ozarks opened the scoring in the third inning with three runs.

Ron Danko singled and moved to second on an error. Tom Rothcram singled him home. Bob Mastracci doubled in another run and Johnson bingled in Mastracci.

In the fourth, Mastracci homered over the centerfielder's head.

The Ozarks tacked on two markers in the fifth. John tripled and Tom Standard followed with a single. Hill rapped in Standard.

In the sixth, Anderson walked and Mastracci tripled. An error permitted Mastracci to score moments later.

At that point in the game, Johnson decided to make some substitutions. Immediately West Newton went to work.

Home Team Rallies

In the sixth, the home team put together three hits and an error to score three runs.

In the seventh, four singles and two errors accounted for three runs with just one man away.

Mitnick came on to fan the next batter and Monessen's Duane Miller saved the day with a fine catch in centerfield to end the game.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Warm-Up Sessions

A warm-up session just before your round should cut at least three to five strokes from an 18-hole score. Let this warm-up period follow a definite pattern, with definite objectives.

Start by checking your grip. Then take a half dozen easy practice swings to loosen the muscles. Hit the first 10 shots with a short iron, swinging easy and concentrating on hitting the ball solidly in the middle of the clubface.

Now go on to hit three to five balls with each club, working upward to the driver. Pay attention to your shot pattern. Maybe, for instance, you're pushing the ball to the right too much. If so, be more careful during the actual round on shots where marked danger lies to your right. Try to tie your warm-up experience to the problems you know you'll face on the course.

Taper off the warm-up by hitting three or four half-shots with a short iron. Then a chip or two at the end. Wind the whole thing up with five to 10 minutes on the practice putting green.

Ortega Decisions Isaac Logart

SYRACUSE N.Y. (UP)—Gaspar Ortega of Mexico may have to wait until next November for the welterweight title shot he earned by again scoring an upset, split decision over Cuba's Isaac Logart in their 12-round "rubber" elimination match Friday night.

Lanky Ortega's second triumph in their three fights won him recognition as top contender for the 147-pound crown in the eyes of the New York State Athletic Commission, at least.

But managing director Harry Markson of the International Boxing Club said today: "Perhaps Basilio will postpone his next defense until after he challenges Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight title in September."

Twenty-one-year-old Ortega's long-range counter-punching against Logart's close-quarter hooking attack won the votes of Referee Al Berl (on a rounds basis) 7-4-1 and Judge Harold Barnes, 6-5-1. But Judge Joe Agrello favored Logart, 7-5, as did the United Press, 6-5-1.

Pony League in Draft Tonight

Managers Will Meet to Divide Players; LL Draft Set for Mon.

Monessen's PONY League will hold its annual draft meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Ravens Club.

At that time, the four league managers will take turns selecting from a list of 49 eligible boys.

These youngsters took part in at least two of the three weekend tryout sessions sponsored by the league. The final tryout was held this morning.

Player Agent John Barton estimated that about 32 boys will be drafted.

All youngsters who participated in the PONY League last season remain the property of their old teams providing they have not exceeded the age limit.

Similar Meeting

Barton, who is also player agent for the Little League, said that a similar meeting will be held for that group on Monday at 7:30 in the Civic Center.

Once the draft meetings are held, managers in the respective leagues will begin work on their squads for the upcoming season.

Both the PONY and Little Leagues were surprised by the large turnout of boys for tryout sessions. That means there will be no player shortage this season in either league.

The Little League tryouts will be completed this afternoon.

Pirates Lose Again to Phils By 3 to 1 Score

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, losers of five straight and of all six night games played thus far, send their best against the Philadelphia Phillies today in an afternoon game.

It will be righthander Bob Friend (2-2) against southpaw Harvey Haddix (1-2).

In the first game of their four-game series Friday night, rookie Jack Sanford handcuffed the Pirates with three hits to win, 3-1, for his fourth victory of the season. He hasn't lost a game.

For loser Ronnie Kline, the defeat was his fourth. He hasn't won yet, and in 20 2-3 innings of pitching hasn't had the comfort of seeing even a single Pirate run scored to back him up.

Second baseman Granny Hamner hit a homer, his second, in the third inning and Pirate reliever Luis Arroyo wild-pitched two Phillie runs home in the eighth.

Sanford lost his shutout when he walked Johnny Powers in the ninth and was tagged for a triple by Hank Foiles.

Sanford, a returned serviceman who takes special pills to prevent his throwing arm from becoming numb because of a circulatory condition, struck out 10 batters.

Dodgers, Giants May Both Wind Up on Coast

NEW YORK (UP)—The wheels continued turning today in the machinery that eventually may bring the Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles and the New York Giants to San Francisco, but Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick placed a "gag" order on all parties involved.

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco discussed the possible transfer of a major league franchise to this city at a meeting Friday with Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, and owner Horace Stoneham of the Giants.

Christopher admitted, "We discussed the possibility of bringing major league baseball to San Francisco."

Stoneham also said as much but added that he and all other parties were prohibited from commenting further because of a telegram to that effect sent by Frick.

Wants Baseball

"I won't give up until we have major league baseball in San Francisco." Christopher said. "I'm frank in saying major league baseball on the West Coast is an eventual must. It's going to happen some day and I can't say if immediately or later."

Christopher indicated San Francisco will take any major league club it can get, whether it's the Giants or any other club.

Bucs Hall on Disabled List

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Pitcher Dick Hall was placed on the disabled list by the Pittsburgh Pirates today because of a chronic soreness in his arm.

Hall pitched 5 2-3 innings this season, giving up nine hits and seven earned runs. Four of the hits off him were homers.

Kuvinka 'Chews Out' Umpires

Mon Valley League Commissioner George Kuvinka admitted today that he has "chewed out" at least two umpires already this season.

Kuvinka was particularly disturbed over last night's Donora-Van Voorhis game, which Donora won, 10-7.

Reportedly the host Vans tried to stall to prevent the necessary four and a half innings from being played.

Kuvinka apparently felt the umpires should have averted the farce by calling a forfeit if necessary.

"Our umpires try to be nice guys, but sometimes that's impossible," bristled Kuvinka.

Boys Advance in Marble Tourney

The field for the Ninth Annual Marble Tournament was trimmed to five boys yesterday at Memorial Civic Center.

Advancing during inter-school play were Lloyd Aldrich, of Lincoln; Robert McFadden, of Vocational; Terry Husher, of Jefferson; and Joe Kerestes, of Holy Name.

Aldrich tripped Vernon Smith, of Ben Franklin; McFadden clipped Gary Belle of Washington; Husher bested William Shepler, of Linden; and Kerestes won over David Bergsted, of St. Leonard's.

Philip Reed had earlier won the Junior High title.

Philadelphia Making Real Bid In National League; Chisox Win

By MILTON RICHMAN

Everyone kissed the Phillies off this spring as a club that would put the fans asleep.

There were not so many today as the Phils, winners in six of their last eight games, climbed to within three games of the first place Braves.

Rookie Jack Sanford chalked up his fourth straight victory without a defeat in beating the Pirates, 3-1, Friday night with a three-hit effort.

And Granny Hamner, the guy who was supposed to be all washed up, smacked his second homer since reclaiming his second base job.

Sanford, a returning serviceman who sometimes suffers from numbness in his throwing arm, exhibited a mighty live fast ball in striking out 10 batters. Ronnie Kline went down to his fourth defeat without a victory.

In other National League games Johnny Logan drove in five runs while leading Milwaukee to a 10-5 victory over St. Louis. Willie Mays, fresh out of a hospital, paced the Giants to a 2-1 triumph over the Dodgers. The Cincinnati-Chicago game was postponed by rain.

Take First

The White Sox took over sole possession of the American League lead with a 6-4 decision over the Tigers; the Orioles handed the Yankees their third consecutive loss, 4-1; the Indians defeated the Athletics, 4-1, and the game between the Red Sox and Senators was wiped out by rain.

Logan did the damage against the Cards with a home run, two singles and a double as rookie Juan Pizarro went all the way for the Braves to gain his first major league victory. Pizarro commemorated the occasion with a home run of his own and Ed Mathews also homered for Milwaukee. Ken Boyer and Wally Moon homered for the Cards. The defeat was charged to Sam Jones.

Mays helped the Giants beat ex-teammate Sal Maglie with a triple and two singles. It marked the first time the Giants defeated Maglie since he left them. Ruben Gomez registered his fourth victory.

Southpaw Billy Pierce survived a rocky first inning in which Detroit sent eight men to the plate and scored two runs to nail down his fourth triumph. The White Sox got to rookie Don Lee for single runs in the second and third and a decisive four-run cluster in the fifth. Nellie Fox and Red Wilson hit homers.

Johnson Wins

Right-hander Connie Johnson of the Orioles posted his first win of the season after four losses in defeating the Yanks. Baltimore clinched the contest in the fifth with a three-run rally off Johnny Kucks. Yogi Berra's fourth home run of the season in the eighth produced the Yankees' only run.

Rookie Roger Maris supplied the big wallop in Cleveland's victory over Kansas City. Maris had to leave the game with a bruised side in the fifth but before departing slammed a two-run homer off southpaw Gene Host in the second inning. Mike Garcia hurled a two-hit shutout until the ninth when the Athletics scored their only run. Ray Narleski mopped up for Garcia.

Crucial Exam Today for Tribe's Herb Score

CLEVELAND (UP)—The question of whether Herb Score will be able to resume his brilliant pitching career with the Cleveland Indians may be answered today.

Physicians were hopeful of making a complete examination of the young hurler's right eye, which was injured Tuesday night when Score was hit in the face by a sizzling liner from the bat of New York shortstop Gil McDougald.

Since the accident, doctors issued cautious predictions that score would retain his sight in the eye unless unexpected complications developed.

The doctors, headed by Cleveland eye specialist Dr. Charles Thomas, admitted that a definite decision concerning Score's eye could not be made until a full examination. That was prevented by a severe hemorrhage which occurred when the ball hit him.

The doctors late Friday issued a medical report saying "Things continue to look very encouraging, and we may know much more about the story Saturday." They also said they had postponed indefinitely the taking of X-rays to determine the extent of any possible damage to bones surrounding the injured eye.

3 Memorials

A tribute of love and devotion on Mother's Day to the memory of our dearest and beloved mother, Mrs. Louise Salvino, who passed away five years ago, January 1, 1952
Mother always leaned to watch for us,
Anxiously if we were late,
In the winter by the window
In the summer by the gate.
And though we mocked her tenderly
Who had such watchful care.
The long way home would seem more safe
Because she waited there.
Her thoughts were all so full of us
She never would forget.
And so we think that where she is
She must be watching yet.
We miss you dearest mother and tenderly recall
Your love and kindness to us all.
From all of us who thought the world of our dearest mother.
Sadly missed by her loving son, Ernest Salvino, and her daughters.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Rose Stankovich, who died 10 years ago tomorrow, May 12, 1947.
We live today with memories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by her children.

Union Claims Pickets Were 'Run Down'

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (UP) — A union official said Friday night several pickets were "deliberately run down" by Atomic Energy Commission cars on the first day of the strike at the AEC plant near here.

The charge was denied by officials of the Goodyear Atomic Corp., where 1,450 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union are on strike in a contract dispute.

C. A. Romine, president of the union local, said pickets were "conducting themselves in a very commendable manner" but that there were several incidents when AEC cars transporting supervisory personnel crossed picket lines.

"We hereby request that Goodyear and Atomic Energy Commission personnel refrain from such tactics and prevent trouble on the picket lines," Romine said.

The company said a report that an AEC car allegedly "brushed" a picket proved to be unfounded.

Water Pollution Is Big 'Waste' President Claims

HARRISBURG (UP)—President Eisenhower has told a national water conservation group that water is one of the nation's most critical resources and the pollution of the waterways "an extravagant waste."

The President's statement was in a message to the Water Resources Council, Inc., at a meeting here Friday of the organization which consists of 19 national groups representing civic, manufacturing, commercial, technical and conservationist interests.

"As our people are alerted to their responsibility in this vital area, and encouraged to accept strong voluntary controls originating in their local communities and states, I am sure the national health and economy can be strengthened."

Dent Proposes Assembly Form Budget Office

HARRISBURG (UP) — Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent today proposed that the Legislature set up its own Budget Office to examine the financial needs of the state government.

Dent proposed a Legislative Budget Board to be composed of the lieutenant - governor, the Speaker of the House, the Senate president pro-tempore, the majority and minority leaders of the House and Senate and a member of the minority party from each chamber.

The board would have a staff composed of a director and four budget examiners who would be authorized to hold budget hearings with heads of state departments to determine the needs of the agencies.

Dent said that this system has been in effect in the Texas Legislature for six years and contended that it has worked excellently. He called for bipartisan support in carrying out his proposal.

"A properly staffed Budget Board will save a great deal more than the funds expended for its operation," Dent said. He added that it will enable the Legislature to "move a long way towards achieving the goal of full responsibility for the legislative programs which are necessarily under our Constitution the full responsibility of the Legislature itself."

Hit Performance

SAGINAW, Mich. (UP)—Policeman Robert Ahkah blamed a sister act today for the smashed fenders on his car. Ahkah said that when another automobile crashed into his parked car he ran over to investigate. Inside he found two neighbor girls, 3 and 4 years old, one was standing on the seat pushing the starter button while the other stayed on the floor to operate the clutch.

Belated Award

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP)—World War I veteran Albert M. Tiffany said today the Defense Department has notified him he will receive a Purple Heart soon for wounds he suffered in France in 1918. "It's a good thing I didn't have to wait that long for my Army pay," Tiffany said.

Your Health—

You Can Catch Summer Cold

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Although winter usually is considered the season for sneezes, summer colds can be pretty miserable, too. If you have one now, you have a lot of company.

About 40,000,000 Americans will catch colds between May and September — an average of about 10,000,000 per month.

So, let me remind you of a few cold facts.

Do your best to avoid catching a cold. Keep your resistance up and stay in good general health.

Eat properly, but not too heavily, during the summer months. Make sure your food is both substantial and nourishing.

Don't try to cool off too quickly after strenuous exercise.

And let the clock, not the amount of darkness, advise you of your bedtime. With daylight saving time in effect in so many communities, I'm afraid a lot of you might not realize when it is time to go to bed.

Now even in hot weather, heat is helpful in treating colds. It is beneficial both internally and externally.

At the first indication of a cold, take a hot bath just before retiring. Taking a bath and then going outside probably will do more harm than good as far as your cold is concerned.

If you have a fever, call your doctor.

Inhaling steam is a good idea in most instances. But again, do not do it if you have to leave the house immediately afterwards. Inhaling steam when you have a cold will leave you sensitive to a chill for some time.

Best place for you is in bed.

Here again heat serves as a remedy. The warmth of your bed combines with the rest you get to give your body a better chance of fighting off the cold infection.

One form of heat is not advisable. If you can, stop smoking. Smoke, you see, irritates the nasal membrances.

Question and Answer

L. B.: To satisfy a constant craving for sweets, I consume at least a pound of candy daily with no weight gain. Is this harmful?

Answer: It is harmful to consume the amount of sweets daily that you mention. This craving for sweets might be due to diabetes or to low blood sugar coming from some other cause.

You are in need of a careful study by your physician to determine whether any abnormal condition is present, so that proper treatment may be carried out.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. B-449

DESIGN B-449. This design is small in area but large in room sizes. A sneak-thru door in the bathroom eliminates the usual long hall. The bathroom doubles as a clean-up room and entrance to the central hall. Spacious bedrooms boast large wardrobe type closets and the coat closet has been placed in the central hall.

The kitchen is L-shaped with informal dining space, a broom closet and corner sink with corner windows that overlook the rear yard. The attached garage can be omitted very easily if lot is not wide enough. A "little different" look is achieved on the exterior by the use of wide V-joint vertical siding, plywood gable ends and casement type windows. Floor area is 952 square feet, cubage is 17,612 cubic feet (excluding garage.)

For further information about DESIGN B-449, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

'Deductible' Insurance For the Homeowner

Increases in rates for windstorm insurance, commonly included in comprehensive coverage clauses in fire insurance policies, have prompted many homeowners to compromise on what is called "$50 deductible."

Since so many cases of windstorm damage involve comparatively small amounts and the cost of adjusting such claims runs so high, the insurance companies offer the homeowner an agreeable inducement if he is willing to bear the first loss in any damage that occurs. Major damage above $50 — an entire roof torn off, or a chimney toppled through your house — is then covered by the insurance company.

This arrangement makes it all the more important for the homeowner to take precautions against windstorm damage. If a tree limb breaks a window, usually a loss below $50, it comes out of the same pocket from which you are paying your insurance premiums. If a few shingles are ripped off the roof and $49 pays for the repair, it all comes out of your pocket.

There's Wind in the News

Furthermore, windstorm damage seems to be getting more common. Maybe it's because we hear about it — like coronary thrombosis, words which the pioneers never learned. But when the entire East Coast gets the nickname of "Hurricane Alley" and the Mississippi Valley and Great Plains states are lumped in the "Tornado Belt," with other monickers applied to every windy city and whistle stop, it seems prudent to gulp down a few ounces of prevention against the wind, as well as against rain, fire, or germs.

Some sensible rules have been compiled by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. But the rules differ widely for tornadoes and hurricanes.

"Tornadoes," say the experts, "may appear with little warning. Fast action is necessary.

"Safest place is underground in a storm cellar. Next best, at home, is a corner of the basement nearest the approaching twister. If in a basementless house, seek shelter elsewhere — even an open ditch offers some protection.

"Don't stay in an automobile which may be rolled over and crushed."

As for hurricanes, the experts say they affect much larger areas than tornadoes, but warning of their approach is usually available. Even lesser windstorms call for hurricane precautions. Keep your radio turned on for information. Get away from waterfronts.

Air Conditioning Can Benefit Even Those Who Have no Units

Air conditioning has brought benefits even to people who don't have air conditioning in their homes.

Almost any house can be made more comfortable in summer and heated more economically in winter because of new ideas in home design and construction brought about by experience in air conditioning.

In order to get the most out of air conditioning installations and to keep operating costs within reason, architects and builders have found that more efficient planning and construction has become necessary.

Here are some recommendations for year-round comfort.

1. ORIENTATION. It's rarely possible to achieve ideal orientation, because most building lots are not large enough. Where possible, however, try to keep a garage, carport, or porch on the west to break the low-angled rays of the afternoon sun. The north and south sides of a house are best for windows shaded from the sun.

2. INSULATION. Every house should be adequately insulated. Recommendations call for a 3-inch thickness of mineral wool or the equivalent in the sidewalls and a minimum of 4 inches in the roof or attic floor, depending upon whether the attic is used as living space. With air conditioning, proper insulation can cut operating costs by as much as half.

When a basementless house is built on a slab, the slab should have edge insulation around its perimeter. When a house is built over a crawl space, the underside of the floor should be insulated with thick mineral wool batts or blankets and the ground surface should be sealed with a moisture barrier.

A rule to remember: The thicker insulation, the better job it will do summer and winter.

3. SHADING. Broad overhang eaves, trees, awnings, blinds and reflective screens are among shading devices. Wide overhangs or awnings on the south side of a house are especially important. A roof overhang should be planned wide enough to shade the entire south wall down to the ground in mid-summer. When the sun is lower in the winter sky, its warming rays will still enter the rooms.

When an awning meets the wall at the top, there should be an opening to let warm air escape.

Avoid unshaded concrete or masonry patios on the south side of a house where they will reflect heat into the house in summer. Even heat reflection from unshaded grass can be noticeable.

4. ROOF COLOR. A light colored roof will keep much of the sun's heat from being absorbed into a house. Even popularly used asphalt shingles are now available in white and various light pastel tints.

5. WINDOWS. In a house without air conditioning, windows on opposite sides of a house should be kept open for thorough air circulation. Casement types can be adjusted to capture and direct breezes. Leaving storm sash on windows during the summer will reduce heat gain similarly to modern double glazing. With air conditioning, of course, all windows should be kept closed.

6. ATTIC VENTILATION. All houses should have adequate louvers in gable ends or under eaves. One rule for effective size of such openings is 1 square inch for each square foot of attic floor area. "Effective" means that wire insect screening the size of the opening must be doubled.

Exhaust fans in louvers will increase ventilation. A ceiling fan can help greatly by pulling warm air from a house and expelling it through attic louvers. With air conditioning, however ceiling fans should not be used.

7. VENTING DEVICES. Kitchens, bathrooms and laundries are major sources of heat and moisture. Exhaust fans for these rooms are highly recommended. The most efficient kitchen fan is in a hood over the stove, or in the wall or ceiling directly over the stove. Automatic clothes dryers must be vented to the outdoors for all seasons.

Falls Major Cause Of Home Injuries

Falls from chairs or ladders are one of the major causes of injuries around the home, and housewives are ready to cheer any development which reduces the danger of such accidents. R.O.W. removable, operating, wood windows reduce such dangers because they are made with a sash which can be easily taken from the frame. These modern windows can be washed or painted while you stand on the floor inside your home.

Help Keep Your Home Cooler

Shrubs, trees and vines can help keep your home cooler this summer, says the American Association of Nurserymen. It urges these methods to prevent the sun's rays from striking the walls of your house.

Plant tall-growing shade trees on the south or west sides. They will block off the sun and may grow high enough in time to shade the roof, eliminating attic heat that causes so much summer-time discomfort in homes.

If your home is low, plant shrubs on the west to block out the intense late-afternoon rays of the sun.

Plant grass around the house instead of paving large areas. Grass and shrubs absorb the sun's heat instead of reflecting it.

The U. S. Forest Products Laboratory has announced the development of a wood fiber board poison gases which filters out radioactive fallout, germ-covered particles, and
